Why Performing Arts ?

Social benefits

There are significant social benefits to getting involved in the Performing Arts. Taking dance classes or drama lessons will open doors socially and will allow your children to make new friends more easily, after all a key to drama and the arts is communication.

Personal benefits

There are many personal benefits to getting involved with dance and drama, particularly for people who are shy or lack confidence, as one of the main benefits is that performing arts boost your confidence. Performing in front of a large, or even a small crowd can be very daunting but during rehearsals you will grow in confidence as your skills improve and you will be able to use this newfound confidence in every aspect of your life.

There is evidence to suggest that getting involved in music, dance and drama can improve your intelligence levels because you learn so many new skills.

There are also spiritual and psychological benefits because dancing and acting encourages self-discipline, diligence, expression, calmness, and awareness.
